GERMANS TO PAY HEAVILY FOR LOSS OF CHINESE LIVES

Several Millions In Cash And Railway Bonds To Be Part Of Indemnity

FIVE PARTS IN TREATY

Sequestration Of Property To End When Pact Is Concluded

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, April 23.—According to New Society, the draft of the Sino-German Commercial Agreement consists of five documents, namely:

- (1). The text of the Commercial Agreement;
- (2). The statement of the German delegate;
- (3). The official documents of the German delegates;
- (4). Notes explaining the Agreement, and
- (5). Inquiries and replies of both parties.

The Agreement forfeits the extraterritorial rights, formerly enjoyed by Germany, but the German delegation gained their request that German lawyers should be allowed to plead in cases involving German citizens.

The tariff on German goods will be the same as the new National Tariff, which will shortly be introduced, for non-Treaty nations, but until this new scheme comes into force, import duties will be levied on German goods under the existing regulations.

No difficulty was found in the negotiations on the subject of the indemnity to be paid by Germany in connection with the expenses incurred by China in the internment of Germans during the war, but considerable difficulty arose in discussing the indemnity, demanded by China, in consideration of the lives lost in the Chinese labor Corps. Germany is willing to pay part of the indemnity, amounting to several million dollars in cash and more in railway bonds.

As soon as the Agreement comes into force, China will cease the sequestration of German property in China.

JAP JOURNALIST SCORES NATION'S SHANTUNG STAND

"Friendless Position Just Retribution For Our Behavior," He Tells Audience

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Tokio, April 23.—The Japan League of Nations Society held its first general meeting here today, Viscount Shibuya presiding. About one hundred of the Society's most prominent members attended.

Doctor Juchii Soyeda, ex-President of the Imperial Government Railways and Vice-President of the Society, declared that the Society, which numbers six hundred members, had been instrumental in "minimising" the Shantung and Korean independence questions at the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva.

Several members having demanded that the Society should define its attitude on the Yap, Shantung, labor legislation, opium and disarmament questions, the matter was turned over to the Directors for study and report.

Mr. Rokuro Kamei of the editorial staff of the Jiji Shimpo, who is well-known in China (he was for many years the Jiji's correspondent at Peking), strongly denounced the retention of Japanese troops in Shantung. Japan, he declared, showed no sign of redeeming her pledge to return Shantung to China. "What," he asked, "have we gained by making ourselves an object of hatred?" Japan's friendless position today, asserted Mr. Kamei, was just retribution for her behaviour during the war. The Society, he urged, should seize the opportunity of redeeming Japan's prestige among her fellow-nations, by showing that loyalty, sincerity and honor still existed in Japan.

Replying to questions, Dr. Soyeda explained that although the Society had been formed to support the League of the Treaty of Versailles, it was not prevented from cooperating with other similar organizations.

The Minister for Foreign Affairs, Count Uchida, declared that the League of Nations had come to stay, and he was convinced that it would become the moving spirit in the world's affairs. But time must elapse before the ideal of the league could be achieved. Meanwhile, Japan must cooperate to the utmost with other nations. Japan's sole aim, added the Foreign Minister, was the maintenance of peace.

NEW OUTRAGES IN IRELAND, FIVE MORE FATALITIES

Ambushes Reported During Week-End—Fierce Battle In County Galway

DOCUMENTS CAPTURED

Papers Show Systematic Sinn Fein Attempt To Overthrow Local Government

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 24.—Hopes of an early peace in Ireland have been awakened by a visit made by Lord Derby, Incognito, to Dublin where it is believed he interviewed several notable persons who are in very close touch with Sinn Fein. He returned immediately, visited Mr. Lloyd George at Lympe, and then hurried back to London, where he dined with Lord Talbot, the new Viceroy of Ireland.

London, April 24.—Official reports from Ireland state that a number of outrages and ambushes occurred during the week-end in Belfast and County Clare in which two soldiers were killed and three seriously wounded, while two civilians, a school teacher and a clerk were shot dead in their homes in Belfast by three unknown men, and a publican in Tipperary was murdered.

Groups of from four to five men held up thirty-two postmen on their various rounds in Cork and stole 47 registered and 7,000 ordinary letters in the name of the Sinn Fein authorities.

A fierce battle, lasting twelve hours, occurred in the mountains at Kilmilkin, County Galway, when a patrol of fourteen Royal Irish Constabulary, was ambushed by a large body of rebels who were led by a man disguised as an Irish priest. Ultimately reinforcements of soldiers drove off the rebels. One constable was killed and two wounded.

Melbourne, April 23.—In a farewell speech to his constituents, before his departure for London, the Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, recalled that the Australians had lived under the same constitution for a century and had not broken one of the ties that bound them to the Motherland. He reiterated his desire to maintain the Anglo-Japanese Treaty and asked: "But for the Japanese, how long would it have been before our cities were reduced to ruins in the early stages of the war?" Nevertheless, Mr. Hughes refused to agree to an alliance with any nation which could involve Australia in a war with America. He expressed the opinion that the only hope for world peace was an alliance between the two branches of the Anglo-Saxon race. A world war arising out of the Yap dispute, would, he said, disgrace civilization. Mr. Hughes added that an Anglo-Japanese alliance, acceptable to America, would mean the saving of millions of pounds.

London, April 25.—Lord Derby stated that when he went to Ireland a few days ago it was not to undertake any Government mission or at the invitation of anybody in Ireland. It was purely a private visit, taken on his own initiative.

JAPAN'S PRINCE

(Reuter's Service)
Malta, April 24.—In splendid weather the Crown Prince of Japan entered the harbor at Valetta this morning amid thundering salutes. His arrival was witnessed by a large multitude.

After a storm of great violence, the day dawned fine and bright, and Valetta presented a very gay aspect. The route along which the Crown Prince was to pass was decorated with British, Japanese and Maltese flags and other devices.

Long before the arrival of the Katari, every place of vantage surrounding the harbor was packed with people standing ten or fifteen feet deep. The Katari and the Kashima were escorted to the harbor by six British destroyers, while seaplanes hovered overhead. The Katari entered first, the Prince standing on the bridge. The ships steamed slowly to their moorings amid a thundering salute from the British warships in the harbor which were dressed from stem to stern with the Japanese flag flying at the main mast. The British crews manned their ships and cheered lustily, whilst bands played the Japanese anthem.

At noon the Crown Prince landed at the Customs House from a pinnace, accompanied by the members of his suite. The Governor received him and a guard of honor drawn from the Malta Artillery gave a royal salute, while a band played the Japanese anthem. The Crown Prince was wearing an admiral's uniform and decorations and looked very well. His Imperial

OWNERS AND MINERS SEEK NEW WAY TO END STRIKE

Representatives Of Men, Employers And Government Meet

TEMPORARY PLAN

Wages In 1920 Three Times Total Of 1913, Figures Show

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 25.—The efforts to discover a basis of settlement in the coal dispute were renewed this morning, when the coal-owners' representatives and the executive of the Miners' Federation again had a conference with the Government at the Board of Trade.

The conference discussed the possibilities of a temporary settlement. It is believed that the owners are prepared to advocate a temporary settlement on an area basis for three months, with monthly revisions, after which a permanent settlement would operate, embracing a standard wage and standard profit. This proposal represents a compromise between the national basis demanded by the miners, and the district basis put forward by the owners.

Mr. A. J. Cook, a member of the Miners' Executive, addressing a meeting of transport-workers at West Ham, said the miners were leaving the Triple Alliance until it was reorganised and remodelled, "so that the men at the bottom, and not those at the top, were able to rule it."

London, April 23.—At the resumed conference of miners' delegates today, the Executive reported on yesterday's conference with the Prime Minister and the coal owners. It appears that they conveyed the delegates' decision not to yield to their demands for a national wage board and a national pool, but intimated their readiness to discuss the wages question if those principles were included in the agreement. It is stated that the Prime Minister did not definitely rule out those principles.

No new proposals were submitted yesterday, but the Executive recommended that it should be authorised to resume discussion at the board of Trade on Monday, when the owners will present a more detailed statement and fresh facts will probably be brought forward. The delegates agreed to this course and adjourned until Monday afternoon.

The Executive will meet the coal owners on Monday morning.

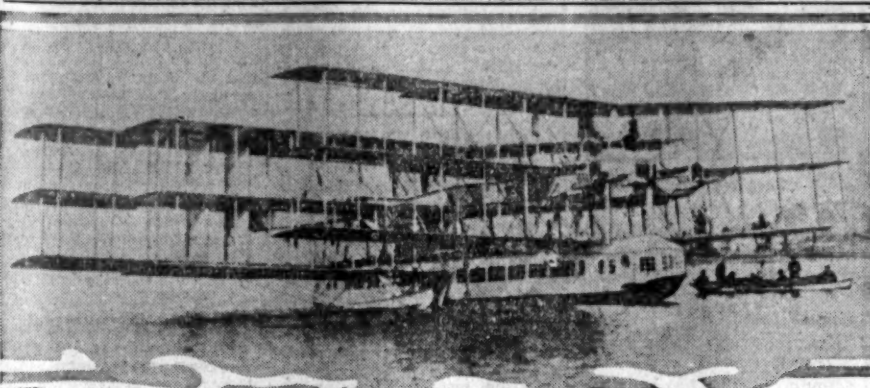

London, April 23.—Light was thrown on the coal industry returns in the course of the past seven months in the House of Commons today by Mr. W. C. Bridgeman, ex-Secretary for Mines, who showed that in 1913 wages amounted to $90,000,000 and profits to $21,000,000, while last year wages were $264,750,000 and profits $27,000,000.

London, April 24.—A large number of trade union and labor meetings were held throughout the country yesterday to consider the possibility of assisting the miners. There was a tendency in a few cases to force the hands of the Triple Alliance by advocating sectional strikes, but the most notable decisions reached were: firstly, that of the Transport Federation's executive, calling on the trade union members to refuse to handle "blackleg" coal at the ports and addressing messages to the International Transport Workers' Conference at Geneva and the American Longshoremen's Association to request their co-operation, and secondly a joint appeal issued by the Trades Union Congress and the National Labor Party to their affiliated Unions and organizations to provide funds to relieve the distress of the miners' families.

FIRE IN VIENNA

(Reuter's Service)
Vienna, April 24.—A fire which broke out in the State stores has destroyed immense quantities of flour, provisions, boots, leather goods and other materials. The loss is estimated at 500,000,000 crowns and is severely felt by the inhabitants of Vienna.

World's Greatest Flying Boat Wrecked In Italy

THE great Caproni flying boat, Sesta Calende, designed and constructed by Signor Caproni, the great Italian aviation expert, which was wrecked by a storm in Italy recently. Reports from Rome say the great plane will be rebuilt immediately and will soon attempt a transatlantic flight carrying 100 passengers. The Sesta Calende is the greatest heavier-than-air machine in the world, having a lifting capacity of 52,000 pounds. The giant flying boat has three sets of triplanes, spanning 100 feet and a boat sixty-six feet long. The Pullman cabin has ample accommodation for 100 passengers with baggage. The plane is thirty-two feet high and its estimated speed, with a full cargo, is ninety miles an hour. Eight 400 horse-power engines furnish the motive power.

Trams Here Are Not So Bad, And Look At The Coppers You Save In Chasing Them

BY ELSIE MCCORMICK
RIDING in a Shanghai tram seems to require a brief for the defendant. At least, the friends whom we meet usually explain that the car had gasoline in its carburetor or something and therefore it couldn't be used. We always tell them that our rich man didn't come that morning. As a matter of fact, he didn't. Nor the morning before that. Being a lowly scribe without even a typewriter we call our own, we haven't got a risha. But most of our friends haven't cars either, so we start at scratch.

The first procedure of a person taking a tram-ride in Shanghai is to begin to walk. He walks until he comes to the first "Fare Section" sign, and then halts firmly under it with the glowing conviction of having saved three cents. Maskee if he—or she, as it may be and frequently is—wastes three dollars or so later in the afternoon on cocktails he didn't want or a lace-collar she didn't need. Almost invariably the Shanghai resident ambles on to the "Fare Section" sign if one occurs between him and his destination.

THE FARE SMUGGLERS
When the conductor reappears they make feeble gestures with the hand holding the money, but they don't exactly force it upon him. If he passes on without collecting they subside and begin to take a deep interest in the scenery out the window. Others who seem self-conscious are those who are planning to ride a block beyond the fare section, but do not look kindly on the additional tariff and the people who chew up or otherwise dispose of their fare receipt before the arrival of the inspector.

Shanghai tram-cars differ from the American variety in many particulars. In the first place, we miss the row of current literature showing pictures of a young lady clasped in a suitor's arms, with the face-cream that was responsible for the event pictured modestly in a corner. We miss the Arrow Collar man and the advice to own our own home. We miss, too, the trolley Number One Boy, who told us to step lively and remarked that there was plenty of room up front. And last but not least, we miss the row of Wrigley addicts across the aisle who chewed in unison and with such perfect rhythm that one instinctively looked around for an orchestra leader with a baton.

But though we miss much we are nevertheless the recipients of various blessings. Ladies and gentlemen, we have with us this morning and every other, the misplaced coolie with a duck in a basket that was looking for third class, the Japanese gentleman who bends around so as to occupy two seats when the car is crowded, the griffin who tries to use his fare receipt as a transfer, and the lady who tells all the personal affairs of other ladies to a friend across the car.

Here's to the Shanghai tram-car. Long may she bounce! Fare, please!

Mexico Calls For Creditors' Meeting

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, April 23.—The Mexican Legation here announces that President Obregon has called a meeting of representatives of the principal holders of the Mexican debt up to the 1910 loan (external four percents alone being recognised as valid) with a view to arranging the most practical and convenient solution of the present difficulties in connection with the debt.

Chinese Workers In Cuba Hard Hit

(Reuter's Service)
Peking, April 23.—The Chinese Charge d'Affaires in Cuba has reported to the Government that owing to the serious financial crisis in Cuba, many Chinese laborers are finding themselves without employment. He advises the Government to prevent Chinese emigration to Cuba. The Government has therefore telegraphed to the maritime provinces to that effect.

HUGHES WANTS JAP ALLIANCE TO SATISFY U.S.

Refuses To Agree To Any Pact Which May Involve War With America

(Reuter's Service)

Melbourne, April 23.—The Government has carried a resolution dealing with the work of the forthcoming Imperial War Cabinet. An amendment by the Labor members, designed to withhold approval of the Japanese treaty until it had been sanctioned by a referendum, was rejected.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, declined to consider the possibility of war against America.

London, April 23.—Documents captured by Crown forces in Ireland give evidence of recent systematic attempts on the part of Sinn Feiners to overthrow the local government administration there. It appears that fourteen rebel inspectors were appointed to visit the local government bodies and try to induce them to collect rates for the Sinn Fein funds instead of for the Government. They met however with no success. An order was then issued last February instructing the Republican Army brigade commanders to harass and boycott certain classes of loyal officials.

In some cases rate money was extorted from the ratepayers by armed and masked men. Protests from the different county councils merely evoked rebukes from the Sinn Fein headquarters, which emphasised that opposition to enemy regulations was the predominant consideration, even though some county councils should suffer a financial breakdown.

London, April 25.—On the occasion of Anzac Day, Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Aylmer Hunter-Weston, who is inspecting the graves at Gallipoli on behalf of the Imperial War Graves Commission and is also prospecting for a site for a permanent memorial, has telegraphed from Chanak the following address, through Reuter's Agency, to the surviving sailors, soldiers and airmen who fought at the Dardanelles:

"In your name I am laying on each of the graves a wreath of wildflowers gathered from the land made forever British by the bodies of the heroic dead. May we who survive do our best to spread the spirit of cheerful self-sacrifice, devotion to duty and comradeship which they so gloriously exemplified, thus helping to attain the ideals for which we fought!"

NEW NOTE ON REPARATIONS SENT TO U.S. BY GERMANY

Says Nation's Industries Offer Services To The Allies

PREMIERS MEET

Lloyd George And Briand Agree In Principle On Enforcement

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, April 24.—The German Government is today despatching to America a Note containing its new proposals in regard to reparations.

The German Note proposes that the work shall either be undertaken by the State or be delegated to the National Colonisation and Settlement Association. It states that, apart from this method, German industries offer their services for necessary purposes, including the rebuilding of brickworks and other works for the production of building material; also the erection of 25,000 wooden houses by autumn, and the provision of furniture and stoves.

Special inducements are held out for rapid reconstruction work, with a view to influencing interested individuals in favor of the scheme.

Washington, April 24.—The German counter-proposals have been received by the State Department, but details of them have not yet been divulged.

New York, April 25.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Times learns that, if the German proposals are considered a proper basis of discussion, there will be a conference between the Allies and Germany, at which the United States will be represented, not as umpire, but in order to endeavor to bring both sides into agreement.

PREMIERS MEET

London, April 23.—M. Briand arrived at Dover this afternoon and proceeded to Lympe where he was most cordially welcomed by Mr. Lloyd George. The two Prime Ministers informally discussed the proposed French sanctions and also Germany's latest note.

The two Prime Ministers examined methods for the adjustment of the various points of view, for example, the opposition of British Liberal and Labor circles to fresh sanctions in order to produce a satisfactory solution.

London, April 25.—Mr. Lloyd George and M. Briand had a further conversation at Hythe this morning, when they cleared up the remaining points of the French proposals. The text of the new German Note had not then been received. Mr. Lloyd George departed for London after bidding a cordial farewell to Mr. Briand, who left for Paris at noon.

London, April 24.—The Hythe conference lasted all day and the two Prime Ministers examined the reports of the experts on the German note with regard to the reconstruction of the devastated areas and afterwards discussed the methods of exacting payment from Germany.

It is stated that the discussions showed complete accord between Great Britain and France with regard to the necessity of immediately compelling Germany to pay.

London, April 24.—Reuter's Agency learns that Mr. Lloyd George and M. Briand had a long conference this afternoon at which the French proposals were discussed. No decisions were reached because the conversations were only informal. Decisions will be taken at the meeting of the Supreme Council which will be held in London on April 30, if the strike continues, but otherwise in Paris.

AGREE ON PRINCIPLES

It is understood however that the two Prime Ministers agreed in regard to general decisions, subject to confirmation by the Supreme Council. On the principle of the adoption of the French proposals they were unanimous. It is understood that in the event of the occupation of the Ruhr basin, no British troops will be employed, but there will be a certain number of cavalry and tanks to show the solidarity that exists amongst the Allies. It is pointed out that the Paris agreement still stands and there is no suggestion of any modification of it.

London, April 24.—In an interview with Reuter's representative, Mr. Lloyd George stated that he and M. Briand had dis-curious, the question of further penalties but one difficulty was that another German note was on the way. The Prime Minister said that the last German note was satisfactory as far as it went, but it only dealt with part of the question and did not even touch the balance of the reparations. He anticipated that at the next conference on April 30 all the Allies would be present. Meanwhile it was idle to talk of conclusions being reached at Hythi. The conversations between M. Briand and himself, Mr. Lloyd George added, were of a most friendly character. The occupation of the Ruhr basin was discussed and there was no doubt that if Germany did not make a satisfactory proposal, the Allies would occupy the Ruhr basin. Nobody wanted to do this, except as a means to an end, but Germany was undoubtedly in default.

Berlin, April 23.—Germany has sent a note to the Reparations Commission offering three alternatives for the reconstruction of the devastated areas. Firstly, Germany would reconstruct certain towns and villages under German control or under an international townplanning organization; secondly, she would supply plant, material and labor, in conjunction with the German trades unions, immediately to erect at least 25,000 houses; and thirdly, she would appoint efficient contractors with whom the sufferers could frame building plans.

Germany has expressed her willingness to pay the accounts presented in marks, but refers payment in foreign currencies to a future settlement.

Brussels, April 23.—Germany has intimated her intention of placing the Reichsbank's gold reserves at the disposal of the Allies at Cologne, but the operation will probably take a considerable time.

FRESH PROPOSALS

It is stated that fresh proposals from Berlin are imminent and may be expected at any moment.

Paris, April 22 (delayed).—At the coming conference between the British and French Premiers, M. Briand will submit practical proposals to be applied in case Germany persists in her policy of passive resistance.

London, April 24.—A strange discrepancy in the reports regarding the tenor of the German reply in regard to the Reichsbank's gold reserves has been cleared up. Contrary to the Brussels telegram of yesterday, the text of the reply transmitted by Reuters' Paris correspondent shows that the Germans state that they are unable to agree to the Allied demand on the ground that the Reichsbank is a private, independent company and that the removal of the gold reserves would entail a very serious economic crisis in Germany. The reply however offered immediately to introduce legislation extending till October 1 the prohibition of the export of gold from Germany without the approval of the Reparations Commission, which expires on May 1.

Paris, April 23.—Commenting upon Germany's latest move in regard to the question of reparations, the Temps recalls Bismarck's own words after France's defeat in 1871—"If France does not pay, we will do like caterpillars upon a tree and devour district after district until France also dies." The Temps declares that, while France has no intention of applying the Bismarckian method, she certainly means to get her due.

Vienna, April 24.—The earliest figures of the plebiscite taken to decide the fate of the Tyrol indicate a majority of eighty per cent in favor of union with Germany.

Berlin, April 24.—A cabinet crisis appears to be imminent owing to the discontent caused by the Government's failure to consult the Reichstag before invoking President Harding's mediation in the reparations question. The position of the Foreign Minister, Dr. von Simons, particularly, is imperilled.

Sun's Inauguration Postponed To May 5

(Reuters' Pacific Service)

Canton, April 23.—The inauguration of Dr. Sun Yat-sen has now been postponed to May 5.

The Defence Commissioner at Shihing reported that the advance guards of the Kwangsi Army have reached Machong, in the Fungtsun district.

It is stated that after his inauguration as President, Dr. Sun will immediately order mobilization against Kwangsi.

Speaking at a dinner given in honor of representatives of overseas Chinese, Dr. Sun explained the Canton Government's financial difficulties and appealed for a loan of $10,000,000 from overseas Chinese.

The Overseas Chinese representatives, however, would not agree to the proposal.

Miss Dolly Prince Plays "Irene" Tonight

Miss Dolly Prince

Miss Dolly Prince of the Bandman Company will play the lead in the Bandman production of "Irene" at the Lyceum Theater tonight and will be greeted by a crowded house.

Many Shanghai people saw "Irene" in London, New York or Boston with Edith Day and Irene Shipman playing the lead and those who have not seen the musical comedy have heard of it. "Irene" is still on Broadway, playing to capacity houses every night and Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

"Irene" will offer a delightful evening's entertainment. With several catchy songs including "Irene," "Alice Blue Gown," "The Last Part of Every Party," "Castle of Dreams" and "Sky-rocket," the musical comedy set the whole United States whistling. It is replete with good lines.

In choosing Miss Prince to play Irene O'Dare, Mr. Bandman has picked one of the real stars of his company. She played the role first in Calcutta and received highly favorable criticism in the South.

The Chamber concurred with the General Chamber on important points. It is estimated that, by the new rates, the Government will benefit to the extent of $3,000,000, whereas it needs only $1,000,000.

Highness inspected the guard of honor and then entered the Governor's motor car and drove to the palace through densely packed streets lined with police. Alighting at the Palace Square, which was thronged to its utmost capacity, the Crown Prince received a royal salute from a guard of honor drawn from the Essex Regiment and a band again played the Japanese national anthem, the crowds uncovering and displaying other signs of respectful welcome.

At the palace, besides the Governor, the Archbishop of Malta and flag officers, the heads of the civil, naval and military departments were assembled and were presented severally to the Crown Prince. Accompanied by the Governor and attended by his suite, the Crown Prince attended a matinee performance of Othello in the afternoon at the Theater Royal which was decorated in his honor. On leaving the theater the Crown Prince met with an ovation from a large crowd which had assembled outside. The Prince then motored to the ship yard.

Tonight a state dinner will be given at the San Antonio place and a reception will be held afterwards. The British officers of the Navy, Army and Air Force will entertain the Japanese officers at the Union Club, while the British warrant officers and men will entertain their Japanese confreres.

Tomorrow there will be a ceremony at the naval cemetery where several Japanese blue-jackets were buried during the war. Afterwards the Crown Prince will lunch at the Casino Maltese, the leading Maltese club, and in the afternoon will attend a garden party at the San Antonio place. In the evening there will either be a dinner at Admiralty House or a state dinner aboard the Katori and a display of fireworks and illuminations by the fleet.

On Tuesday, the Crown Prince will visit the British warships and will lunch either with the Governor or with the naval Commander-in-Chief.

On Tuesday afternoon the Katori and the Kashima will leave Malta.

Mixed Court Jottings

Three foreigners arrested by the Paoshan police at Kiangwan race course, where they are alleged to have been attempting to pick pockets Saturday, were charged in the Mixed Court yesterday and were ordered remanded in custody for trial before the Russian Assessor next Friday. The men are S. Chieherin, a Russian barber; S. Sevov, a Russian student, 12-year-old, and Andre Adislar, a Persian artist. A further charge, that of obtaining $25 from Mrs. Takage, Mr. Paplock and Mr. Fuld, was brought against the third accused. The men were arrested after foreign police sergeants in plain clothes had observed their actions and an attempt had been made to pick a foreigner's pocket. The younger of the trio was given in charge of his grandmother who was made responsible for his appearance as a witness.

A Chinese police constable appeared yesterday as one of four defendants charged with running an opium den at 348 Ward Road. He was not found on the premises when the place was raided but was implicated by a letter received by the police and by testimony of another defendant. The policeman was fined $6, one defendant $5, another $30 and the fourth—who had a record of fifteen previous convictions dating back to 1899, when he received 500 blows with the bamboo—was sentenced to three months in jail and re-expulsion from the Settlement.

The Chinese who is charged with complicity in the plot to murder General Li last year at his home in Wenhaiwei Road was before the court for a further hearing yesterday, the case being again adjourned.

A coolie convicted of the theft of $100 and two gold chains belonging to Mrs. Cooper, 13 Baikal Road, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment yesterday.

For breaking into a China Merchants' godown and stealing 92 pounds of dye a coolie was sentenced to three months' imprisonment and three men convicted of receiving the stolen dye were sentenced to two weeks each.

Sentences of three months each are to be served by the two coolies convicted of stealing a gold watch from Mr. A. H. Hanson while he was riding in a ricksha on Boone Road.

John Brennan, who has been several times before the Mixed Court for begging, appeared again for that offense yesterday and was sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

S. Tifer's, a Latvian subject failed to appear yesterday to answer a charge of assaulting a Chinese clerk at Moore's auction rooms Saturday and his bail, $50, was forfeited.

Plan Garden Party To Observe Birthday Of Sh'hai W. C. T. U.

A garden party to be held on the afternoon of May seventh at 405 Avenue Joffre will celebrate the sixth birthday of the Shanghai Women's Christian Temperance Union.

In the annual report just issued, Mrs. C. J. Passikides outlines the work of the past year and describes also the progress of the sister organization composed of Chinese women. The Shanghai W.C.T.U. has a membership roll of 130, including several nationalities. Besides assisting in propaganda work, it holds monthly meetings throughout the club year and hears addresses on topics related to its object.

The report praises especially the work of Miss Christine Tilling and Miss Frances Wang, who are touring China in the interests of temperance. Miss Tilling is the author of many tracts on the subject that have had wide circulation, chiefly among students.

Permanent headquarters have been secured by the Chinese branch of the W.C.T.U. at 17 Arsenal Road. Dr. Mary Stone is president of the organization.

Three Big Boats Will Figure In Next Mail Shipment

Three of the biggest boats in the America-Orient service will figure in the next mail movement both to and from Shanghai.

The inbound mail is due on the Admiral Line's first "535" ship, the steamer Wenatchee which is due to dock at the China Merchants upper wharf on Thursday.

Outgoing mail is scheduled for dispatch to California and the Southern states by the Pacific Mail "535", the Golden State, leaving here Thursday.

Mail for Canada, Northern and Eastern America will be sent out on the C.P.O.S. steamer Empress of Russia, leaving Shanghai Saturday.

The Golden State is due at San Francisco May 17, while the Empress is due at Vancouver the day before. The consigning of California and Southern mail by the Golden State however, will equalize these arrivals, in so far as mails is concerned because of the greater time required for railway transportation from Vancouver to San Francisco.

Gunboat Carlisle's Captain Tells Story Of Dash To Pole

Members Of Union Jack Club Hear Tragic Facts Of Captain Scott's Disappointment And Subsequent Death

The tragic story of the journey of Capt. R. F. Scott's dash to the South Pole in 1912, with its disappointment at finding himself superseded by the Norwegian explorer, Roald Amundsen, the terrible sufferings of the return journey to the expedition's base, and the death of the only three survivors within a few miles of the pole, was told Sunday night at the Olympic theater, by Capt. E. R. Q. R. Evans of the British gunboat Carlisle, who was second in command to Capt. Scott on the fatal expedition in 1912.

The story which was told under the auspices of the Shanghai Race Club, for the benefit of the members of the Union Jack Club, was illustrated with beautiful lantern slides, describing the life of the scientists in the frozen south, and their progress in their dash for the pole. Many little details in lighter vein were recounted by the Captain, but the lecture on the whole was of serious things.

The Terra Nova, Capt. Scott's little ship, with its 60 officers, scientists and seamen, left New Zealand, November 29, 1910, and almost immediately was engulfed in a terrible storm which almost wrecked the expedition. The first ice was encountered at latitude 64, and on December 9, the great belt of the Antarctic pack ice was reached. Two hundred miles further south the vessel hove to for several days in order to conserve coal. During this time some marine biological work was done, and magnetic observations and soundings of the sea were taken. Studies of embryology of the Emperor penguins were made 380 miles south, after which winter quarters were established at a point named Cape Evans in honor of the lecturer. From here depot parties hauled provisions to a point 144 miles further south.

The Terra Nova proceeded with the purpose of landing a second expedition, and while searching for a suitable location fell in with the Norwegian explorer, Amundsen, in Nansen's little wooden Frith. A friendly visit between the members of the two expeditions followed. Capt. Scott's second landing party was under command of Lieutenant Campbell.

The main landing party under Capt. Scott himself, with 15 others, were cut off from the winter quarters for nearly six weeks of autumn and winter, due to the breaking up of the ice, but found their way back to the Cape Evans base over the newly formed ice in good health and spirits. It was during this winter that much scientific research and investigation was done. Laboratories out in the solid ice, were shown by the slides. Many journeys in the furtherance of science were made, and many hardships, such as frost bite, etc., were endured in the 77 below zero weather.

The dash for the South Pole was made on October 24, almost one year after leaving New Zealand, the second in command, Lieut. Evans, with the motor sledges, leading the way. The motor conveyances, however, were abandoned before long, due to improper cooling of the engines, and the journey was resumed with Siberian ponies, which had thus far traveled light. Two supporting parties returned northward after the first 500 miles, when the ascent of the 160-mile long Beardmore glacier was begun. On December 21 the three teams had reached the King Edward VII Plateau, in latitude, 85 deg. 7 min. south, 7,000 feet above the barrier. Here the upper depot was established, and a third supporting party returned homeward.

Capt. Scott now pushed forward with two sledge teams, making an average speed of 15 miles per day with the party dragging 200 lbs. per man. Soon, tremendous crevasses, as wide as Nanking road were met with. These were bridged with snow and dashed over. On Christmas Eve, the party was 8,000 feet above the barrier, in a higher wind and more penetrating cold prevailing, with increased discomfort from frost bite.

The 87th parallel was reached on New Year's Eve, and continuing the journey until January 4, the last supporting party was sent back, for Capt. Scott now realized that the goal was well within his reach. Lieut. Evans commanded this party. This return party suffered severe hardship in making the 1,500 mile trip in harness back to the base. The going was difficult; distances covered were slow, so that the marching time was increased from nine hours per day to 12, and then to 14. Lieut. Evans was attacked with scurvy, and during the latter stages of the journey was dragged on a sledge by his men.

Capt. Scott reached the South Pole on January 17, 1912, only to find to his great disappointment that he had been superseded by Amundsen: the Norwegian flag was flying at the Pole when Scott arrived. They started their homeward journey two days later; it was during this return journey that the supreme sacrifice was made by Oates, whose feet and hands were in such condition that he could proceed no further. He walked out into the Polar night during a blizzard and gave his life that the party might not be further delayed. Seamen Edgar Evans also died near the Beardmore glacier from severe concussion resulting upon a fall. The remaining three, covering six to seven miles per day, continued, until, when within 11 miles of a depot where one ton of provisions were cached, they gave up in a blizzard, and with food gone and strength gone, and no promise offering, they lay down and waited for the death which soon came to them.

"LIGNOID"

An Ideal Flooring Material

Lignoid is a new composition, whose discovery has opened a new era in the methods of flooring and materials for structural purposes, regarding which architects and engineers have hitherto made so much study and effort. It contains in itself all the merits of such flooring materials as wood, tiles, asphalt, concrete, marble, linoleum, mosaic or terrazzo, and is far superior to them as regards its suitability, which is really ideal, for flooring purposes. The following are its special features:

- (1) Character: The principal ingredient of Lignoid being an inorganic substance and containing certain chemical admixtures, it is non-corrosive and insoluble.
- (2) It is incombustible and insulating and remarkably waterproof.
- (3) It makes up, when installed, a solid floor with a fine appearance and being quite free from any tendency to corrosion and abrasion, its durability is permanent.
- (4) It well withstands heat and cold, and it is remarkably free from the tendency to crack.
- (5) It is dust-proof.
- (6) Being light and elastic it makes walking pleasant, and gives no sound.
- (7) As it adheres firmly to wood, concrete, stone and iron, it never bulges as is the case with linoleum.
- (8) No matter how great the space may be on which it is to be used, it can be installed without using any joints.
- (9) Its installation is easily carried out by a plasterer.
- (10) Cleaning and repairing can be done easily.
- (11) Its price is moderate.

No matter how spacious the office, saloon, dining-room, corridor, verandah, etc., it can be put down without any joints. For wainscoting entrance, corridors, bathrooms, laboratories, etc., it is admirable.

GOD VERSUS MAN DISCUSSED BY REV. PAUL RADER

God's way versus the ways of man were compared in the first of a series of addresses given at the Ella M. Stewart Memorial Church at 106 N. Szechuen road, Sunday night by the famous American Evangelist, Rev. Paul Rader. Once, he said he himself saw Man magnified a thousand times, and God thrust somewhere into the back ground. But after ten years of wandering God laid hold of him "in His marvelous way" and made him see things again in their right proportion.

Rev. Rader, if his impaired health is equal to it, will hold special services at the Ella M. Stewart church each night during this week, beginning at 7:45 o'clock until Saturday when he is booked on the Empress of Russia, enroute New York to attend the annual council of the Missionary Alliance of which he is president.

At the beginning of Sunday's address Rev. Rader emphasized his faith in the Word of God, and told of his early experience, when, having left preaching for a while and gone to college to prepare more thoroughly for the ministry he was led off into agnosticism through the teaching given him, wherein Man was magnified and God put in the background. Like others who have had a similar experience he sought to go back to the pulpit but found that he had no message and soon honesty compelled him to step out of it. But after ten years of wandering God laid hold of him in a marvelous way and he knew that he had a Glorious Divine Christ and a Bible that was true from beginning to end, to be believed and trusted wholly.

Based on his remarks on the words "And when he had smitten the waters, they parted hither and thither," he exclaimed "These words are either a lie or they are true," and went on to speak of the two ways that there are of doing things, Man's and God's. Man had great plans but there was one question, that of sin, that always baffled him. Sin and the death that has always followed it have ever proved too much for men and nations, and they have been overcome. But there was another way of meeting sin, and that was God's way and it never failed. Education had a certain value and power but it was powerless here. What was needed was the spiritual power of God in Christ that was able to deliver all and any from sin and its dire consequences, death. Illustration after illustration was used with telling effect, and carried the audience along to the climax when an appeal for decisions to surrender to this power brought a ready response and soon a large number of old and young were at the altar rail.

Peking To "Explain" Attacks On Russians

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, April 25.—It is reported from Suaiyuan that about 590 Chinese have arrived at Paotun from various parts of Mongolia in a state of starvation. The Tatuming of Suaiyuan has sent Mr. Chang Chan-yuan, one of his staff, to arrange for their transport to Taopuchi station.
A report from Kalgan states that the Chinese authorities are showing their sympathy with the peaceful Mongol refugees, who fled from their homes when the Russians under Baron Ungern advanced and are making arrangements to send them back to their homes where it is possible.
Peking, April 25.—The following is an extract from the report of the Chinese official observer, dated Manchuli, April 7:
"It is learned from authoritative Chinese sources that the protest made by the Manchuli representative of the Far Eastern Republic will be satisfactorily answered. From information gathered along the frontier line, defined by the River Argun, there are numerous Chinese military posts under the command of the Hailar District Troops. These Chinese troops, consisting principally of cavalry, owing to the lack of roads and the wilderness of the country, are accustomed, as is the usual procedure of Chinese troops, to make descents on the Chinese farmhouses and villages, demanding food and fodder. The Chinese are used to this because they well know that these troops are actually in want on account of the corruption so prevalent among the Chinese military. It is quite likely that the Chinese troops, finding that they could get nothing from the Chinese villagers, did cross into Russian territory and make the same demands from the Russian inhabitants, knowing full well that they could not resist.

"Another construction may also be put on their action and that is that they were 'advised' by some reactionary ex-officers, who are now at their wits' end to find a living, to take this course in the hope that this would cause a breach in the friendly relations at present existing between China and the Far Eastern Republic. For those who peep-poop such a view we wish to draw attention to the fact that it is only 120 versts from Hailar to the Argun frontier by the highroad going east and that at the present moment at Hailar the Russian reactionary element is much in force, thanks to the attitude of the chief of the garrison, General Chang Kwel-wu. Therefore it is quite possible that such is the case.

"Last evening shortly after eight o'clock some nine armed men, all Russians, robbed the quarters of Mr. Brigin, the Manager of the Chita Railway at Manchuli. Though the neighborhood was at once searched by both police and soldiers, no arrests were effected.

This is the third armed robbery which has taken place at Manchuli during the past ten days, the victims in each instance being representatives of the Far Eastern Republic, who are holding responsible positions and are naturally thought to be in possession of Government money. The opinion of these representatives is that the robbers are an organized band of Semino and Ungern followers, who wish to alarm those representatives so much as to force them to leave Manchuli. They have appealed to the Chinese authorities to give them more protection, especially after nightfall.

JOSEPH J. EVANS ELECTED CAPTAIN OF ROWING CLUB; NEW RACING SHELLS URGED

Retiring Head Of Organisation Asserts That Out-of-Date Equipment Should Be Replaced Before Pleasure Craft Are Added To Shanghai Fleet

The annual general meeting of members of the Rowing Club was held last evening at the Boat House, a large attendance being present.

Mr. W. J. Brown, captain of the Club, presided.

The report and accounts were passed unanimously, as was the resolution proposed by Mr. T. A. Spedding, and seconded by Mr. J. J. Evans, altering the terms of admission for ladies and children to the swimming bath.

The following officers for 1921 were then elected:

Capt. J. J. Evans; Vice-Capt. T. R. Macdonald; Hon. Treas. D. Campbell; Committee: K. Aagaard, B. A. Andersen, A. K. Brown, L. E. M. Dummond, H. R. Evans, J. A. Macdonald, E. Muller, F. W. Schiobohm and T. W. R. Wilson (from among the latter nine committees a hon. secretary will be chosen later).

Mr. Evans made some interesting announcements about the forthcoming Spring Regatta, and the suggested participation of Rowing Club teams in the swimming events at the Far Eastern Athletic Games which will be held over until tomorrow. In his speech Mr. Brown said:

CAPTAIN'S ADDRESS

"Gentlemen, as the Annual Report and Accounts have been in your hands for the past week, I will take them as read, but before proposing that they be passed, I would like to say a few words on the Club's affairs during the year.

"I think you will agree with me that the Memorial we have put up to the memory of our fellow members who made the Great Sacrifice in the War is a suitable one and the list of 22 names is one which the Club can justly be proud of. A half tone block of the Memorial has been incorporated in the Report with the list of present members a most fitting place for it.

"During the year the Club suffered a sad loss by the death of its oldest servant "George" and I am sure I am voicing the feelings of all the older members when I say that we very much appreciated his loyal and lengthy service. A donation to "George's" family was made out of Club funds as you will have seen from the accounts.

"Financially we have come through the year successfully. We opened the General Account with a balance to our credit of approximately $800, and after redeeming Tls. 1,800 of Debentures and paying what I might call extra extraordinary expenses (Interport Swimmers' Passages and the donation to George's family) we close the account with a credit balance of $2,860. This amount I would suggest to the Incoming Committee to dispose of as follows: Redeem a further Tls. 700 ($980) debentures and thus make the total redemptions for the year Tls. 2,500; put $1,000 into a New Boats Reserve Fund and carry the remaining $860 forward as cash available for current expenses.

DEBT REDUCED

"By redeeming Tls. 1,800 worth of debentures we have now reduced the amount still to be redeemed to Tls. 10,850 which I trust we will be able to pay off by January 1925 when the last of our present leases for the land on which these premises stand expire.

"Our income from ordinary sources has increased by $2,543 as compared with last year; this is due to increased membership and rentals received. One hundred and twenty four new members were enrolled as compared with sixty three in the preceding year. There were 267 subscribing members in the year under review as against 217 in 1919. The profit derived from the various activities of the Club was below what was obtained last year.

"The Damsant at which the prizes for the Autumn Regatta were distributed was an innovation and a success as far as the function itself was concerned but it drew more heavily upon our funds than was anticipated though I might add it was not expected that the dance would be self supporting.

"In connection with the expenditure for the year you will note that as has been the experience of nearly all business concerns and sports clubs in Shanghai, expenses ordinary and extraordinary, have gone up under the influence of the much discussed H. C. L. The only recommendation I can make to the incoming executive is to endeavor to scrutinise the minor items in ordinary monthly expenses, and keep them down as much as possible as in the aggregate in the annual account they assume very large and conspicuous proportions which give the lay members of the Club the impression that their money has been wantonly squandered, but, gentlemen, this is not the case. Increased membership accounts also for increase in some of the items of expenditure. Of the extraordinary expense repairs to pontoons stand out as being rather large, this is accounted for by the fact that in recent years not very much has been spent on the maintenance of the pontoons and during 1920, owing to the deplorable state they were in, extensive repairs had to be carried out.

"The Shanghai pontoons are now in quite a good condition but I regret I cannot say the same about one of the Henli ones. I am of the opinion that it would be a good scheme to have one new boat built for the Henli pontoon that is crippled. The incoming committee may however feel inclined to make a clean sweep of the job and have an entirely new pontoon constructed. They will no doubt make their decision regarding this matter after duly considering what the Club finances will permit. In the meantime the difficulty can be temporarily overcome by driving four fairly substantial piles and fastening the pontoon on to them.

"Before leaving the subject of pontoons I must not omit to call to the attention of the incoming committee the necessity of having the Shanghai pontoon berths dredged as both of the pontoons are badly aground at very low tide. This work can however be left till about two months prior to the Autumn Regatta.

FLEET'S CONDITION

"The fleet remains the same as it was last year though for all the use that has been made of them in recent years the following boats might possibly be disposed of to the Club's advantage:

- 2 Light Eights
- 1 Heavy Eight
- 1 Light Four
- 2 Light Pairs

"I consider that it is essential that a New Boats Reserve Fund be commenced at once; now we can allot a sum for that purpose without unduly cutting down the redemption of debentures. Though our present fleet is in a comparatively good state thanks to the efforts of the retiring Boat Subcommittee I think that steps should be taken to provide for the purchase of a minimum of 4 new fours as it is in this class of boat that the greater part of our rowing is done.

"While on the subject of boats it will be out of place to state our position as to oars. We have on hand now 2 sets of new ones which will be put into use in the coming Regatta. An order should be placed at once for at the very least another 2 sets to arrive out here in time for the Autumn.

PLEASURE CRAFT

"My predecessor suggested last year the purchase of a few extra pleasure craft in the shape of long double sculls and canoes. This matter is still in abeyance and will come before the new committee. Personally, I feel that desirable as these additions to our fleet may be, the purchase of 4 more fours of medium weight for racing purposes requires more urgent attention when the Club finds itself in a position to expend the amount involved in the buying of new boats.

"For the benefit of swimming members of the Club the dressing boxes in the bath end of the building were repaired and put in a position during the year and new oil matting put around the bath to the great satisfaction of the swimmers. As the membership of the Club is largely made up of people who join for the privilege of using the bath the committee should bear this in mind and not be afraid to expend a reasonable amount of the Club's funds for the benefit of swimmers.

"To enable the committee to cope with the difficulty of disposing of numerous applications for membership of the bath from ladies whose male relatives are not members of the Club and to make a slight alteration in the swimming subscription rates, we propose to put before you this evening a motion for the amendment to Rule 14 of the Constitution and Rules of the Club."

MUD CAST AT GINK FOWLER'S WUHU VICTORY

He Won That Battle Despite Statements Of Detractor

Sporting Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

"Touchin' on and appertainin' to this Gink Fowler, that you guys are all steamed up over, I think that you gave a wrong decision when you admitted this grease ball to be de luxe edition of the squared circle.

Have you ever heard of one Won Lung, the Hangchow Holocaust? If there ever was a yegg this hombre was it by the width of a Georgia Democratic plurality. He had a greater variety of wallows than a Philadelphia lawyer has allibia. If he cuffed you gently, you contracted fallen arches. When he pulled one from the Terra Cotta and let it ride—your family showed a marked preference for black raiment. He was the Bambino Ruth of the ancient game of duck and slam.

A brief resume of the Holocaust's spasmodic career. He had a bad impression for a mush and it is rumored that the Lord made him as ugly as he could and then kicked him in the face. At the age of four he threw a fit on his first glimpse into a mirror. He was convicted of parricide when he was eight but the warden had to have him pardoned, 'cause the other convicts refused to associate with him. Achilles mother held him by the heel in the river Styx but the mater of Won Lung dropped her hero in Soochow Creek. This in itself is enough to make any man mean and Won Lung started down the Primrose pathway to perdition.

His memorable fracas with Gink Fowler at Wuhu a couple semesters ago was a darb, and made Armageddon and the Battle of the Boyne look like a meeting of the Epworth League or the Dorcas Society debating the Darwinian theory.

For the first 72 chuckas, Gink was hittin' on all six, but the Holocaust was under wraps and knocked the Gink for a row of Esquimo palm trees in the next canto.

When Gink could inhale the ozone again without blinkin', his clothes were out of date, canaries were singin' basso profundo, and the second mortgage on the ol' homestead was long overdue. If this doesn't make your protegee look like a 70, 20, 10 discount on a postage stamp—the panic is on and I'll go back to Yuloling on the Yangtze.

Yours prevaricatingly,

SLIM HANNA.

P. S.—If Gink Fowler was as small in stature as he is in principle he could crawl under a snake without bendin' his knees.

Sailors Stage Comeback And Trim Shanghai 3-2 In Hard Fought Contest

Teams Put Up Good Seven-Inning Exhibition On Somewhat Soggy Field

The sailors of the New Orleans, having worked the roll out of their legs, came back Sunday and evened matters up after losing Saturday's game by trimming the civilians 3-2 in a well fought tussle.

The grounds were a bit damp and the ball was wet and heavy, but after a little ragged work in the opening innings the two nines settled down to things and was a stubborn, scoreless see-saw for the last half of the seven sessions. Shanghai combed seven hits out of Burman's offerings while the navy made three off Devine and a pair off Merrill, two of the first trio being doubles. Shanghai accomplished the feat of crowding four of their bingles into the fifth inning without squeezing a runner across the pan.

Zanzucel was high man with the willow, notching two blows, one for two stations, but both of them were wasted. The cough drop combination provided two of Shanghai's—both Cable Co. and Fire Ins. Smith lining it out, the latter's drive developing into the civilians' second score.

The Navy punched home the initial tally—and the only legitimate one of the game—in the first inning, when Brenner singled, stole second and floated home on Zanzucel's two-try shot to right. Rainoldi's double, a sacrifice by Haaskins and Griffiths' slip brought in another in the second and a base on balls, two pilfered sacks and a passed ball took Zanzucel round the circuit for the sailors' final in the fourth.

Shanghai poured both tallies across the rubber in the second. Maloney notched the first one by reason of Brenner's error at short, a stolen base and Fire Insurance Smith's single to center. Smith also burgled second and scampered in when Taylor dropped Stoval's fly. The locals had three men on in the fourth but Burman cut down two of them at third.

John Bradford Crow stalked into the play in the role of pinch hitter to open the last inning and did some interesting calisthenics with a bat, after which he went away and let Merrill and Sperry close the performance.

The strike-out honors went to Merrill, who dropped five batters in their tracks, while Burman

GIRL BASKETBALL TEAMS OF FRENCH SCHOOL VICTORS

Excellent team work by the girls' basketball teams from the French Municipal School was responsible for victories yesterday afternoon over the Cathedral Girls' School teams. In the match between the senior aggregations, the heavier and larger Cathedral girls were beaten 24-19, the French School girls outplaying their opponents in every department of the game. The F. M. S. Juniors were on the long end of a 14-12 score, winning after a great battle.

Marie Mendel, with eight goals from the field and a couple from the foul line was the high scorer of the afternoon. Her running mate, Laura Chieri, threw four (Continued on Page 6)

The Barnes Cup competition, which calls for a route march of four miles within the time limit of one hour, and subsequent firing at targets on arrival immediately after, at the Range, was won on Sunday by the Portuguese team, composed of the following men: Lieut. Daniel M. Gutierrez, Sergt. Manoel Leitao, Sergt. Eduardo Leitao, Carpl. Adelino Diniz, L.-Cpl. Victor Remedios, L.-Cpl. Jose Campos, Privates Bonnie Pintos, Artur Leitao, Alvaro Leitao, Luciano Lopes, Scondino Pintos, Alvaro Portaria, Antonio Gomes, Fernando Carneiro, Antonio Remedios, Alvaro Souza, Joaquim Ribeiro and Francisco Diniz.

This is the third of the series of inter-company competitions held during the year just coming to a close, all of which have gone to the Portuguese Co. The other competitions were The Inter-Company Challenge Shield, and the British Overseas Cup.

The Barnes Cup was presented by Col. Barnes an ex-Commandant of the S.V.C. for yearly competition among the different units, and is very much valued.

The winning team were ordered to leave the corner of Thibet and Nanking Roads at 9 a.m. Rain fell almost the whole way, which made the march rather arduous owing to the slippery state of the roads.

The whole distance was covered in 59 minutes, but the official time given was 61 minutes owing to a misunderstanding about getting into correct position, this taking 2 minutes. Everyone in the team finished the course with ease and arrived strong at the rifle range, thus resulting in the good shooting which followed.

One Phase Of The New Financial Consortium

Note: The following is in part an address delivered by Mr.
Frederick W. Stevens, representative in China of the American Group in the new Consortium. The speech was made to the membership of the A.B.C. club in Tientsin last Friday:

BY FREDERICK W. STEVENS

It has been said by a few that the Consortium is a monopoly. That word is often used carelessly and generally tends to prejudice any concern to which it is applied. The true definition of a monopoly has been the subject of volumes of decisions, but mere academic questions bearing upon the Consortium plan are hardly worth discussing.

As said in 1917 by a distinguished friend of China: "Under ideal conditions, free competition in the Chinese investment market would probably be the best system; but free competition there has not been and does not seem likely to be."

The conditions in China are of course not ideal; and the ideal is seldom reached in governments, banking, or any other activity of life. Whether or not a thing is desirable, is generally determined by comparison with what has gone before. This thought can be amplified by any one conversant with Chinese financial history.

The practical question for friends of China is—will the Consortium plan probably work to China's advantage?

It seems clear that sooner or later, having put her political house in order, China will need and will seek large amounts of foreign money—to build and improve railroads and highways, to rehabilitate the Grand Canal, perhaps to aid in refunding her existing debts, and of course there is no disgrace to a nation in the mere fact that it needs foreign money. It is the use she makes of it that tells. About every nation has borrowed foreign money at some time in its history.

Now, in America, it has been found by experience that it is not wise in the long run for an industrial concern which often needs to borrow for its business large amounts of money, to go each time "shopping" for it, as the saying is, to go each time from one bank to another hunting the best bargain.

That course usually
"spoils the market" for the proposed securities, and ends in regret.
It may once save the borrower something, perhaps twice, but in the long run it is usually a losing game for the borrower. The wiser course for an industrial concern has been found to be to establish a friendly relationship with strong bankers, and then depend upon them to do the right thing, all the circumstances considered. It does not mean that the bankers will furnish money to the concern in any desired amount at all times, for political and market conditions will always be taken into consideration by a prudent banker before making a loan. But it does mean that the industrial concern that establishes such a relationship with particular bankers has a decided advantage over one that does not, and will get money it urgently needs when it is practicable for its bankers to provide the same.

That may prove true of nations,
as well as of industrial concerns.
It seems to me that China should establish friendly banking relations with strong foreign as well as strong domestic banks. It would be quite sure to prove disappointing, in the long run, for an industrial concern to depend on bankers that may not be equal to the situations that can be foreseen, and this must be true of nations also.

The American group of bankers includes 37 big banking institutions, literally reaching across the American continent. Their combined capital and resources are stupendously large. They are equal to any loan that any conceivable national group of banks would make. They are associated in the Consortium with very strong groups in three other countries.
This is all to the advantage of China. The combined strength of the Consortium banks is, or may become, a great asset to China, when her house is put in order.
She may find it greatly to her advantage, in all big projects, to deal with one strong body like the Consortium, representing the large investment interests of the countries involved.

Of course, if China could borrow large sums of money easily, in any country, on proper terms, on terms that do not threaten her sovereignty, then perhaps there would be no need here of a great international Consortium of bankers. If, on the other hand, among other points involved, it requires great foreign financial strength and international co-operation to make a foreign market for China's long term securities, to the large amount likely to be required ultimately, then the Consortium has a mission here.

There is nothing, I believe, harmful to the Chinese people in the Consortium plan. Let us see, first, what it does and what it does not embrace. It does not relate to bona fide short term loans to be carried by the bank which makes them, even if that bank is one of the Consortium banks. It does not relate to bonds to be sold to the public, either privately or publicly, in China. It does not relate to loans to Chinese private industrial concerns, unless the bonds given for the loan are guaranteed by the Chinese Government or by a Province, which will rarely occur.
The Consortium does not contemplate engaging in private commercial projects, such as banking, manufacturing, merchandising, coal mining, shipping, etc., nor in loans for such projects. Loans to private industrial concerns in China are not in any way barred or unfavorably affected by the Consortium plan. Indeed, by aiming to provide China with more railroads and other basic communication facilities, the Consortium plan, if carried out, will almost necessarily encourage loans by banks and other concerns, domestic and foreign, to private industrial concerns in China.

In order to be within the Consortium plan, a loan must be to the Chinese Government or to a governmental department or to a Province, or it must be guaranteed by one or the other, and it must be a kind of loan involving a public foreign debt—a public sale of the bonds in a foreign country. And if a Chinese bank or a Chinese banking group will make the desired loan, it is not in the power of the Consortium to interfere, even if it should be so disposed. The two loans recently made by a Chinese group prove this. And let me say here that one of the beneficial effects of the Consortium is the formation of the Chinese group of banks.
That group has already done China good service. It can do more good to China. And I believe it will not now be functioning but for the formation of the International Consortium.

The Consortium agreement contemplates that no one of its groups and no combination of its groups less than all, will make long-term loans to China or to a Chinese province on bonds to be sold in foreign countries, without first giving all the other Consortium banks an opportunity to participate in the loan in the equal proportions provided for in the Consortium agreement. This is obviously necessary to any plan which provides for international banking co-operation in loans to China, in the place of international banking competition. On the other hand, if any one or more of the groups should not desire to participate in a proposed loan, and one or more should be willing to make it, there is nothing in the Consortium agreement to hinder. In other words, no Consortium group may prevent a loan by other groups or even by one group willing to make it by themselves or alone.

Every loan in which the American group participates or which it may make alone due to the decision of the other groups not to participate, will require the approval of the American government. I presume there is also a like understanding between the other groups and their respective governments, though I speak always for the American group only. All this means international banking negotiations with China in agreeing upon the terms and conditions of a Consortium loan, which in turn means, it seems clear to me, that if a loan agreement is made, it will be fair to China.

The Consortium plan does not include rules to govern every situation that may arise, and it is not wise to attempt to pass on supposed situations that have not yet arisen. It has been vaguely asserted that the Consortium plan has stood in the way of business in China. I don't believe there has been a meritorious case of the kind. I doubt if such a case will ever arise. If the Consortium has the effect of being an excuse for hocking legitimate business, it is a point in its favor and all the better for China.

The Chinese Government is not a party to the Consortium agreement; it is not broadly committed to the Consortium plan; and it does not need to commit itself beyond the particular case dealt with in a written loan agreement with the Consortium. If China should make one loan from the Consortium, that fact does not obligate either China or the Consortium to make another. If China declares finally that it will not do business with the Consortium, then the Consortium plan must necessarily be abandoned, so long at least as China adheres to that declaration.

IRENE
"There is nothing I like better than flying. The higher I can fly the better it is to me. When I was in Calcutta, I was taken up on many occasions, and my pilot did all sorts of loops, turns, and dips."

It was grand. Yes, I like flying high."

Miss Dolly Prince, in company with Willie Freear, called in to say how-do-do, and it was in the course of conversation that the lady said the words with which I open my column.

Tonight Miss Prince certainly hopes to fly high. The hopes to fly into the hearts of her audience; that will not be very difficult for so charming a comedienne; but she also hopes to fly right into the part of "Irene," one of the tit-bits of musical comedy during the last decade.

First of all a word about the piece. It is one of the few musical comedies with a plot. We can call to mind the first of the bunch "The Merry Widow," which not only had tuneful airs, funny dialogue, and fine chorus work, but also had plot enough to interest, and on at least two occasions in the action of the play, to grip.

"Irene" comes from America.

I hear it was a tremendous success there. One manager told me with glee that it ran eighteen months in Boston—"Fancy," he said, "a musical comedy running that long in Boston."

"Irene" is a regular U.S.A. girl with a distinct leaning to Irish heritage. She evidently did not come of rich folk, otherwise we would not meet her in a West-side store. She is pretty and witty, and ambitious to become a real lady. She imitates the best style of her most stylish customers, and at last meets a young fellow, who takes so genuine an interest in her, that he determines to make her a lady with the aid of education, and dress.

She seems to fit her new surroundings in style, and when she again comes into the big world she proves, so fascinating that "He" falls in love with her and
"she" will never mind what she does. Why should I try to spoil the freshness of the plot for you.
But the play has a plot, and it is undoubtedly interesting.

You will agree that "Irene" needs some fine playing to carry it right over the lights. The comedy, has any amount of tuneful numbers, and the lines have been well written. It Boston gave "Irene" a home for eighteen months, the town, or city, has nothing on either New York, or London. Both places proved that they contained numberless playgoers who wanted something that was different to present day revue. Australia went crazy over the play. "Irene" went there months ago, and they went, let her leave. But Australians have always been just a little bit partial to the ladies, especially when they are built in the mould of an "Irene."

This is the part that Miss Dolly
Prince would portray tonight.
She is ambitious. But nothing is done well without ambition, and so I look forward to the lady making a big hit.

What has she to aid her in the attempt to fly high?

Well, she is undoubtedly pretty.
She is the possessor of a clear mezzo soprano voice. She has had some years of experience in real acting. She has had a first class training in dancing. But above all she is so keen on "Irene" that she puts everyone of her gifts at the disposal of the part.

Who is Miss Dolly Prince? Just a nice, clever girl with charm.
She was born in Canada, but before she knew the position of the Rocky Mountains, or what the capital of the Dominion was, she was taken across the troubled Atlantic and brought up in the middle of England, not so many miles away from the place where Shakespeare was born. Almost as soon as she was in her teens a dancing mistress took a fancy to her work, and she journeyed up to London to undertake an engagement at the Palladium.

Finding that she was able to sing, as well as dance, she obtained an extended engagement with Charles Macdonagh, and then for eight years played parts ranging from steps to leads with John Tiller, of the famous Tiller Troupe.

Mystery Of Italy's 'Revolutions'

(Literary Digest)

A cyclone of Bloodshed is sweeping over central and southern Italy, the Fascist, or extreme Nationalist, who are rabidly anti-Bolshevik, are in constant conflict with the Socialists, the cry of "Long Live the Revolution!" is heard in the land, strikes are spreading, and pessimistic press correspondents in Milan and other cities throw out somber hints about the danger of a general Italian upheaval. But among the skeptical such prognostications are questioned because, as they say, the story of Italy in revolution is one that has been told too often to deserve credit now.

What is more the British and European press are citing Italy as the most progressive and constructive of European countries recovering from the effect of the war. In plan of the recurrent rioting in which some participants are killed and no inconsiderable number wounded, a British authority on Italy, Mr. G. M. Trevelyan, explains that these clashes between the extreme nationalists and the extreme radicals are all in the day's work of Italian politics. High feeling on this subject or that takes the form of a street row or an attack on the municipal to haul up or down the "Red" flag or the national tricolor, he writes in the Manchester Guardian, but it must be remembered that ever since the great days of the medieval cities,
"the politics of the piazza," that is to say, more or less violent street demonstrations, have been a traditional institution congenial to the southern temperament. We read then:

"It is native custom, and will always have a place alongside of the parliamentary and electoral institutions imported in modern times from beyond the Alps. Foreigners are deceived who think, when they read of such rows as lately took place in Bologna between Socialists and Fascists, that Italy is on the verge of revolution, or in a state of double terrorism like Ireland.

On the contrary, Italy is probably further on the road to solving the terrible social problems of the day than any other great country. Both in urban and in agrarian questions the possessing classes already begin to envisage the necessary lines of democratic evolution in the management of industry, and the workmen and peasants reject the delusions of Bolshevism. It is only the beginning of a long story, but the beginning is quite as hopeful in Italy as anywhere else. In these matters, as in foreign policy, Signor Giolitti has shown imagination and moral courage curiously lacking in most countries today.

Another element of stability, we read, is "an informal but real improvement" in the relations of church and state. The result of the war, says Mr. Trevelyan, has "dispelled the last likelihood of a revision of the Roman question in favor of the Pope." The Catholics are increasingly taking their place as citizens of the new Italy, and the Partito Popolare, the popular party, is said to be the sign and symbol of this change, none the less because it has "a double aspect, of agrarian socialism in some places and anti-socialism in others." But the serious prospect for Italy lies in her economic condition, Mr.
Trevelyan points out, and explains:

"The exchange at over 100 lire to the pound, the want of coal and England's failure to supply it, except at prohibitive prices, are very serious facts. The Italians think that the English have exploited their temporary monopoly of coal to sell it artificially cheap to their own people, while recouping themselves by selling it abroad at the highest possible price that they could screw out of their ally, who had no coal of her own and has ruined herself in the common cause.
The charge is true in substance, however much opinions may differ as to whether any other country would have acted differently in the circumstances, and as to the degree of turpitude to be ascribed to such purely self-regarding action. The blame, whatever it may be, must be shared between the British Government and the British people, for our Government certainly did it in order to prevent upheaval at home; labor has not helped the Government to supply coal at reasonable prices to aid the recovery either of Italy in particular or of Europe in general. Meanwhile the Italians are preparing to help themselves. Their mechanical genius and their 'white coal,' as they call the force latent in the Alpine streams, will before long electrify their whole railway system."

In agreement with other people, Mr. Trevelyan goes on to say, the Italians think that the British have served on the most valuable German colonies and Turkish provinces, that they demand a large share of

if she had any of these trifles she would look after them, she said.

Like most women she did war work. Nursing and Y.M.C.A. activities kept her busy, then when time became her own again, she went on the vaudeville stage, and it was here that she was found by Bandman.

Miss Dolly Prince is a crack rifle shot, and is naturally proud of her medals, won in open competition. She is also an excellent horsewoman—but who ever came from Leicester that was not good on a horse?

they will never submit to them.
But they know that they have to live in the same world with them and resume relations on equal terms.

"As to Russia, the Italian Ministerial policy and the Italian labor policy have neither of them diverged from the common-sense view that Bolshevism is bad, but that it is folly to try to put it down in Russia by foreign arms and foreign intrigues."

Textbooks tell us that a pound of pure carbon (the preponderating element in coal) requires the oxygen contained in 11.6 pounds of air to complete its combustion.
Few of us have any idea what 11.6 pounds of air means. The Popular Science Monthly brings it home to us as follows:

"Imagine a column of air one inch square extending forty miles into the sky and you will have a good idea of the amount of air required to burn a single pound of coal. A pound of coal would occupy a column one inch square and only three feet high?"

TOO CHEAP

(From San Francisco Chronicle) Bolshevist plays must be pretty bad if the theaters can be filled only by the threat of fines for those who stay away. It is no question of the price of admission, for under Soviet administration all tickets to theaters, concerts and other public forms of amusement are distributed free.
Perhaps making the theaters free has reduced interest in them through the commonly observed psychological fact that people think little of what costs nothing.

Java Consolidated Rubber And Coffee Estates, Ltd.

Reduced production due to tapping restrictions, and a year's profit small as compared with other years were reported at the annual meeting of the Java Consolidated Rubber and Coffee Estates, Ltd., held yesterday at the offices of the agents, Messrs. J. A. Wattle and Co., 24a Kiangse Road. Shares numbering 17,439 were represented.

Resolutions were passed as follows: That the directors' report and statement of accounts as presented be passed, offered by Mr. A. E. Algar, seconded by Mr. A. E. Algar; that Mr. A. E. Algar be re-elected a director of the company, proposed by Mr. R. S. F. McBain, seconded by Mr. A. K. Craddock; that Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews be elected auditors to the company for the ensuing year, proposed by Mr. Craddock, seconded by Mr. Welch.

Mr. A. J. Welch presided, as chairman, supported by Director A. E. Algar, and for the secretaries, Mr. C. J. L. Stewart.

THE CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH

"Gentlemen: The year's output of rubber fell short of the estimate by 68,600 lbs. This shortage was almost entirely attributable to the restriction of tapping enforced during the concluding months of the year, although the copious rainfall also caused a considerable loss of latex.

"The year 1920 was the wettest year in the history of the company, the result being that the expenditure on weeding and the upkeep of roads and water-courses was more expensive than usual.

"Thinning out was continued during the year and a total of 13,431 trees were removed from the gardens on both estates. This work will be continued during 1921 as there are still too many trees to the acre, but the work has now reached a stage where it is possible to pick and choose and future removals will only be made after the most careful selection.

"The visiting agent in his last report stated that the gardens on both estates were in first class condition and that, thanks to the increased light and air let into the gardens by the thinning out that has already been done, the trees were practically free from disease. Health conditions were on the whole quite satisfactory throughout the year.

"Labor was troublesome owing to the high wages paid by the neighboring sugar and tapioca factories, the daily pay for men being 60 cents as compared with 50 cents in 1919 and 40 cents in 1918. Another cause contributing to the shortage is that owing to the high price of all foodstuffs the natives find it more profitable to produce food on their own land for sale rather than to work for a daily wage.

"At the end of the year the price of food was reported to have been coming down with the result that more coolies were available for estate work.

THE COMPANY'S ACCOUNTS

"Turning now to the accounts, I will deal with those of the Dutch company first. You will notice in the working account that on Soember Mas estate the expenditure under the heading upkeep roads is given as f. 28,570.71, and I have no doubt that this large expenditure has caused surprise to some of you. In explanation I may say that upkeep is not a proper description of the work covered by this expenditure. Towards the end of 1919, owing to the continued rise in the prices charged by the owners of pack horses for transporting produce from estates, the managers of five other estates in the neighborhood and our manager held a meeting and formulated a scheme of constructing a road, which could be used by motor lorries, from Kali Kleope estate on the boundary of Soember Mas estate to a village called Prangas where it would join a good government high road.

"Each estate was to contribute towards the cost of this road in proportion to its acreage; in order to make use of this road it was necessary for Soember Mas estate to build a new road from its factory to Kali Kleope factory, the whole cost of which had to be borne by this company as there are no other estates that it can serve. It will probably be possible later on to recover some of the cost of the road to Prangas from the government, but in any event Soember Mas will save very considerable sums in years to come through being able to transport its produce by lorry instead of by pack pony and by being able to use the usual size of case for packing its rubber. At present, owing to the extreme steepness of the approaches to the estate, we have to use cases that are only about half the size of the ordinary ones. The saving on this item alone will be very considerable.

"The agents in Java, when compiling these accounts might quite well have debited the cost of this road to capital expenditure in the balance sheet instead of to working account, but the accounts having been made up and audited and the company not being in a position to pay a dividend your directors did not consider that it was worth while making any change.

YEAR'S PROFIT SMALLER

"The profit for the year as disclosed by the working account was f. 93,107.90 as compared with a profit last year of f. 533,936.21. This disappointing result is entirely attributable to the extreme depression ruling in the rubber market at the end of the year, which necessitated valuing our unsold stock of rubber, amounting to 593,648 lbs., at only 30 cents or say 6 pence per pound. I hope however that when this stock has all been sold it will be found to have realised considerably more than the valuation placed upon it in the accounts. There is nothing in the profit and loss account that requires special explanation.

"Capital expenditure amounted to f. 26,260.14 the bulk of which was for new machinery for Kali Padang estate, the details of which are given in the report.

"As regards the financial position of the company, on December 31, 1920, the liquid assets of the Dutch company exceeded the cash liabilities by f. 108,414.40 or say approximately Taels 57,000 whilst the cash liabilities of the Shanghai company were Taels 14,444 in excess of the liquid assets.

"The net result being that the combined companies started the new year with a surplus of liquid assets amounting to approximately Taels 42,000, the bulk of which however was represented by unsold stocks of rubber."

Sales Manager Of Engineering Firm Touring Far East

With the object of establishing new agencies, of visiting those already established, and to promote trade generally, Mr. R. Neil Williams, sales manager of Boulton and Paul Ltd., Norwich, England, is touring the Far East, including China, Korea, Siam, India, Federated Malay States, and the Dutch East Indies.

Boulton and Paul Ltd., is chiefly an engineering firm. They cover a wide range of products in their listings, from aeroplanes down to simple farm machinery. It is the first company to develop, in their own research department an all-steel aeroplane, for which they control the master patents. This aeroplane is being made for commercial sale, with the principal idea of providing carriers for governmental postal machines, as well as military planes.

Other products which this company will introduce into the Orient are structural engineering work of all kinds ranging from light toothbridges to factories and other light and heavy structures; pumping machinery for all kinds of liquids, including pumps for molasses and other heavy uses; household electric plants, wire netting, etc.
